FAMILY AND CONSUMER SCIENCES EDUCATION

AN OVERVIEW

Family and Consumer Sciences (FCS) Encompasses Three Interrelated Programs:

- Consumer and Family Studies (CFS) programs prepare men and women with personal skills for family living and for managing home and work responsibilities. CFS courses provide the foundation for Family and Consumer Sciences Related Occupations (FCSRO) Career Pathway programs.
- Family and Consumer Sciences Related Occupations (FCSRO) programs contribute significantly to economic development by preparing youth and adults for employment and postsecondary education in nine career pathways: Child Development; Consumer Services; Education; Family and Human Services; Fashion Design and Merchandising; Food Science, Dietetics, and Nutrition; Food Service and Hospitality; Hospitality, Tourism, and Recreation; and Interior Design.
- California FCCLA is the career technical student organization for students enrolled in FCS Programs. The intra-curricular organization prepares members with leadership, career and citizenship skills for family, community and work roles.

PROGRAM EMPHASIS

CFS program instruction emphasizes:

- Balancing personal, family, and work responsibilities to enhance worker productivity
- Managing individual and family resources and finances
- Responding to individual and family crises (including family violence and child abuse)
- Making effective consumer choices and demonstrating financial literacy
- Strengthening parenting skills (especially among teen parents)
- Improving individual, child, and family nutrition and wellness
- Conserving limited resources
- Understanding the impact of new technology on life and work
- Transferring learned life management skills to the work place and community
- Providing foundation skills for a curricular sequence that leads into FCSRO career pathway programs and postsecondary education in FCS related fields
- Developing strong interpersonal, communication, leadership, and team-work skills

FCSRO Career Pathway programs instruction emphasizes:

- Career awareness, planning and preparation
- Workplace learning experiences combined with classroom instruction
- Increased worker productivity through instruction based on industry-validated standards
- Development of academic and career technical skills
- Integration of academic and occupational skills through interdisciplinary team projects
- Sequenced instruction that leads to work and careers after completion of high school and/or advanced education
- Development of strong interpersonal communication, leadership and teamwork skills

PRIORITIES AND ISSUES ADDRESSED

- Economic development
- Family and societal stability
- Development of a world-class work force
- Development of leadership, career, and citizenship skills for future leaders
- Academic and career technical education integration via interdisciplinary instruction
- Increased worker productivity through effective management of personal, family, and work responsibilities
- Articulation between secondary and postsecondary education programs
- Career and college readiness
